

Leave of absence for new parents

Congratulations!

Welcoming a new family member is an exciting time—but we know it also can turn your life upside down and increase your anxiety. To help, Lam offers new moms and dads time away from work.

Our parental leave of absence (LOA) program is generous, but all the overlapping laws and company programs can also make LOAs confusing. This booklet helps explain bonding leaves and what happens before, during, and after your LOA.

This guide addresses the most common situations and alerts you to ways your LOA may be different, so you can plan effectively and avoid surprises.

You'll find detailed LOA information on LamBenefits.com.

Bonding leave

As a new father or mother, you can take up to 16 weeks of family care leave to bond with your new child in the 12 months following the birth, adoption, or foster care placement of the child. Lam employees can take bonding leave for 16 consecutive weeks or intermittently in increments of at least one week. Silfex employees can take bonding leave for 16 consecutive weeks or in eight-week increments up to two times.

How to prepare for your LOA

Start the ball rolling by contacting Lam's LOA administrator, New York Life (NYL).

Roles and responsibilities

Here's who does what before your LOA:

- You: Determine your LOA start and end dates; when foreseeable, tell your manager about your LOA at least 30 days in advance of your anticipated start date; contact NYL to initiate your LOA and receive the LOA forms; send required documents to NYL; share as much as you're comfortable sharing with your coworkers.
- Your manager: Plan the team's work to accommodate your LOA; keep the details of your LOA confidential unless you give permission for the team to know about it.
- New York Life: Open a case for your LOA and record all the details; collect required documentation; inform your manager and Lam Benefits of your LOA dates; mail information packet containing FMLA rights and other forms; confirm and track eligibility for job-protected leaves.

PRO TIP

Tell your manager about your plans before you contact NYL. The first thing NYL is required to do is inform your manager of your LOA dates, and you don't want it to be a surprise!

Checklist: Before your LOA

What you need to do	When to do it	What else to know
<input type="checkbox"/> Talk to your manager about your LOA.	As soon as you know you will be taking an LOA, and at least 30 days before your LOA start date, if foreseeable	NYL will contact your manager, so be sure to tell him or her about your plans first.
<input type="checkbox"/> Contact NYL at myNYLGBS.com .	As soon as possible after you tell your manager	You will need to provide the start date and estimated end date for your LOA.
<input type="checkbox"/> Talk to your coworkers.	As soon as you're comfortable talking to them about your LOA	This isn't required, but your coworkers may want to share in your joy—and they'll appreciate the heads-up if they'll need to shift work around while you're away.

What to know and do during your LOA

With a new child, you have a lot on your plate. Use this information to make sure nothing falls through the cracks with your LOA and your Lam benefits.

Roles and responsibilities

Here's who does what during your LOA:

- You: Send required documents to NYL; pay for your Lam benefits; enroll your child in your benefits, and make other benefit changes as appropriate.
- NYL: Process STD or VDI payments to you during your LOA, as applicable, deducting your contributions for your Lam benefits.
- Lam Benefits and Payroll: Suspend your payroll checks and employee benefit contributions during your LOA.

Your pay while on LOA

During your bonding leave, you will receive income-replacement payments from NYL if you are enrolled in short-term disability insurance (or VDI in California).

- You will receive payments equal to 100% of your base pay for up to 16 weeks. Federal income tax (but not state tax) will be withheld from your payments.
- Overtime, shift differentials, retention incentives, and bonuses are not included when calculating your benefit payments. The maximum weekly payment is $4,800.
- Before the bonding leave begins, the birth parent may also be eligible for partial income replacement during pregnancy disability leave.

PRO TIP

You should not perform any work while on leave. If your manager contacts you about work, you can remind them of that policy.

Checklist: During your LOA

What you need to do	When to do it	What else to know
<input type="checkbox"/> Send proof of birth or placement to NYL.	Within 30 days of the birth or placement of the child	NYL needs this documentation to confirm the timing for your bonding leave.
<input type="checkbox"/> Complete NYL electronic funds transfer (EFT) form.	As soon as you register on myNYLGBS.com	You will receive paper checks until you sign up for direct deposit.
<input type="checkbox"/> Enroll your new child in your Lam health care benefits.	Within 60 days of the birth or placement of the child	If you don't enroll your child within 60 days, you won't have another chance until the next Open Enrollment period in the fall.
<input type="checkbox"/> Enroll in or update your contribution amounts for your HSA or Health Care FSA.	Health Care FSA: Within 60 days of the birth or placement of the child HSA: Anytime	If you change from single to family medical coverage, your HSA contribution limit will go up—and so will Lam's contributions to your HSA.
<input type="checkbox"/> Increase your supplemental life and AD&D insurance.	Within 60 days of the birth or placement of the child	You can also purchase child life insurance.
<input type="checkbox"/> Update your beneficiaries for your 401(k), HSA, and life and AD&D insurance.	Anytime
<input type="checkbox"/> Stay in touch with your manager.	Throughout your LOA	Your manager will appreciate the heads-up if your return-to-work date or anything else changes.
<input type="checkbox"/> Request adoption reimbursement, if applicable.	Within one year after adoption is finalized	Lam will reimburse up to $10,000 per child. You can make your request before the adoption is finalized if you've already hit the max amount.

PRO TIP

You have 60 days from the birth or placement of your child to enroll them in your Lam benefits. If you miss that deadline, you'll have to wait for the next Open Enrollment period in the fall.

Your benefits while on LOA

You are responsible for paying the employee contributions for these benefits during your LOA:

- Medical, dental, and vision coverage
- Life and AD&D insurance
- Short-term disability (STD, or California VDI)
- Other voluntary benefits

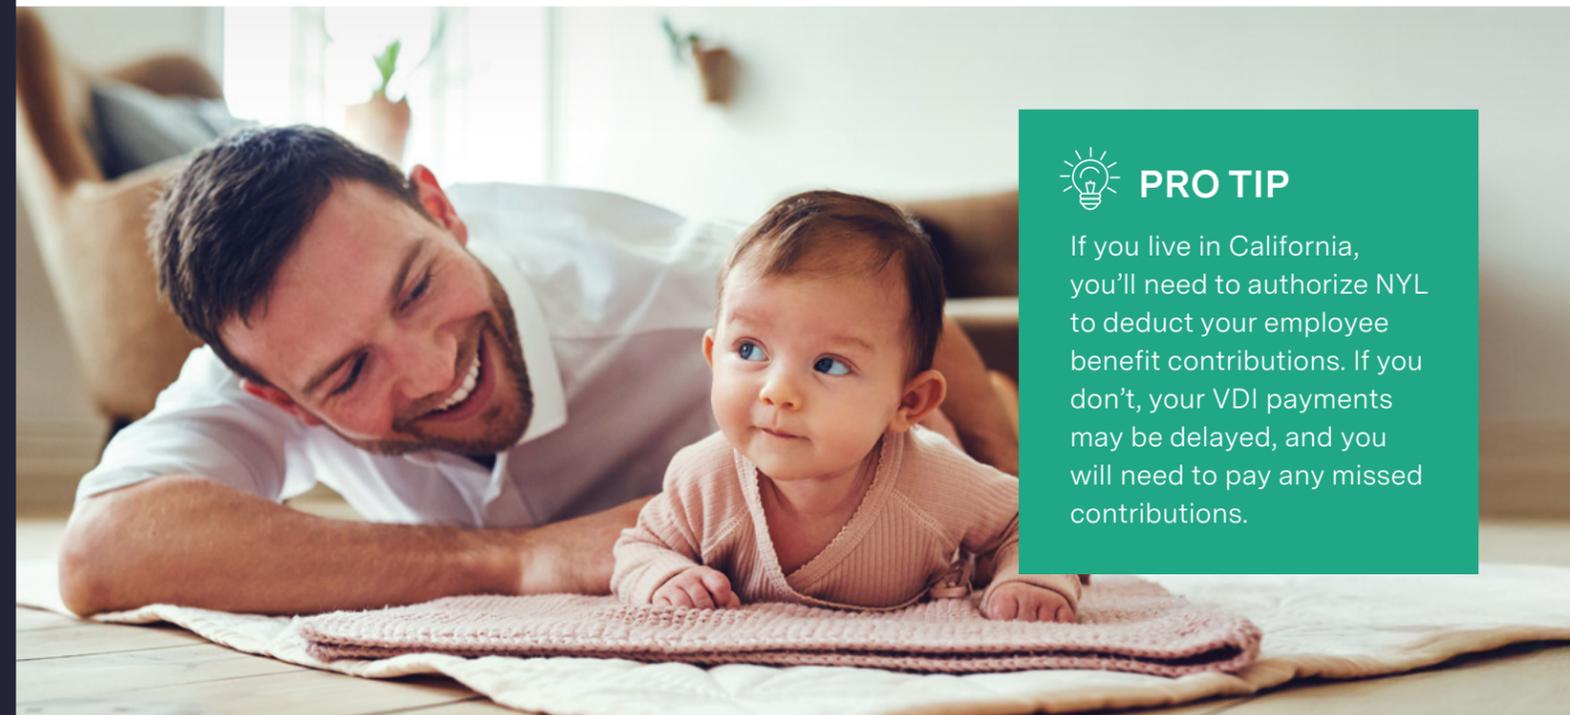

NYL will deduct your employee benefit contributions from your STD or VDI payments. If you live in California, you'll need to complete an authorization form for this.

If NYL cannot automatically deduct the benefits contributions from your payments, you will receive instructions from PlanSource, our benefits administrator, for making monthly payments (which will be slightly more than 2 times your regular biweekly paycheck deductions).

Here's how other benefits will be affected:

- You stop accruing paid time off (PTO) on the first calendar day of your LOA.

- Your bonus, if any, will be prorated if your LOA is longer than 30 days.
- You are not eligible to contribute to your 401(k) or to participate in the ESPP during your LOA.
- If you have a 401(k) loan, your loan payments will cease, and your loan will be re-amortized when you return to work.
- If you are enrolled in the ESPP and your LOA extends beyond 90 days, in most cases your participation in the ESPP will cease on the 91st day. You can rejoin the ESPP during the next enrollment period after you return to work.
- You cannot contribute to an FSA while on LOA, but you can submit claims for eligible expenses. Contributions resume when you return to work.
- Your payroll contributions and Lam's contributions to an HSA will stop while you are on LOA, but you can submit claims for eligible expenses. Your scheduled contributions resume when you return to work, and Lam will make up any missed company contributions.

PRO TIP

If you live in California, you'll need to authorize NYL to deduct your employee benefit contributions. If you don't, your VDI payments may be delayed, and you will need to pay any missed contributions.

How to return successfully from your LOA

There's a little more to do than just show up at work when your LOA ends. Here's how to handle the transition.

Roles and responsibilities

Here's who does what as you return from your LOA:

- You: Contact NYL to confirm your return-to-work date; email benefits@lamresearch.com to ensure that your systems access is activated.
- Your manager: Update you on what's happened while you were away; help you get up to speed again.
- NYL: Contact you within five days of expected return-to-work date to confirm the timing; inform your manager, Lam Benefits, and Payroll of your return-to-work date.
- Lam HR Services, Benefits, and Payroll: Update Employee Connect with your return-to-work date, which enables reactivation of your systems access within 1–2 days; begin processing your regular payroll checks and employee benefit contributions when you return to work.

Tips for a smooth transition

The time will probably fly by while you're away from work. When the time comes to return, you may find you have more questions or anxiety than you expected. Here are some tips to help you prepare for your transition back to work.

- Confirm your return date with NYL. They will notify Lam, so your systems access will be restored. You may want to send a follow-up email to benefits@lamresearch.com to double-check.
- Talk with your manager. Discuss ways you can get back up to speed on your work. Be sure to talk about any accommodations you may need.
- Partner with coworkers. Find out what you missed while you were away. Talk about ways they can help you adjust to your new routine—especially those who also have young kids.

- Give yourself a break. Recognize that you've been away for a while, and you may be a little rusty—not to mention sleep-deprived. Set realistic expectations for yourself, and be honest with yourself and others about what you need to succeed.
- Use the EAP. The Employee Assistance Program has lots of resources for new parents, and they can connect you with an expert if you want to talk about your specific challenges.
- Access more resources. See LamBenefits.com > Work/Life > New and Expecting Parents for ways your Lam benefits can help.

Checklist: Returning from LOA

What you need to do	When to do it	What else to know
<input type="checkbox"/> Notify NYL.	When you know your return-to-work date (and at least a week in advance)	NYL will inform Lam when you're coming back, so Lam can restart your pay, benefits, and systems access.
<input type="checkbox"/> Contact your manager.	As your return-to-work date approaches	Your manager may want to schedule time to welcome you back and discuss your transition.
<input type="checkbox"/> Email benefits@lamresearch.com .	One week before you return to work	This follow-up can help ensure that Lam is ready to reactivate your systems access.
<input type="checkbox"/> Enroll in or update your contribution amount for your Dependent Day Care FSA.	When you experience a change in dependent care costs	Lam will add 15% on top of your FSA contributions.

PRO TIP

It can take a couple of days for your access to be restored to all Lam systems. Be sure to inform NYL of your return-to-work date at least a week in advance, so they can tell Lam to reactivate your access. Then, follow up with Lam Benefits.

What to know about intermittent LOA

As a new father or mother, you can take up to 16 weeks of paid family care leave to bond with your new child in the 12 months following the birth, adoption, or foster care placement of the child. Depending on your circumstances, you may want to take the LOA intermittently during that 12-month period.

If you choose to take intermittent LOA, you'll benefit from planning ahead and communicating with your manager and NYL.

- Coordinate the timing with your manager. Sit down together to map out the schedule for your LOA. You'll both appreciate having a plan in advance for how to manage your work responsibilities around your LOA. Lam employees can take bonding leave for 16 consecutive weeks or intermittently in increments of at least one week. Silfex employees can take bonding leave for 16 consecutive weeks or in eight-week increments up to two times.
- Provide your schedule to NYL. Once you have the full schedule planned, share your dates with your NYL absence manager, who will enter them all in their LOA tracking system. If you don't plan your whole schedule in advance, you must request each increment of intermittent leave at least 30 days in advance.
- Check in with NYL. It's a good idea to call your NYL absence manager a week before you go out or come back from a portion of your LOA. You'll have more peace of mind knowing your pay, benefits, and systems access will be coordinated appropriately.

Pay and benefits during your intermittent LOA

NYL will provide paid family leave (PFL) payments equal to 100% of your base pay, up to $4,800 per week. Federal income tax (but not state tax) will be withheld from your payments.

Your regular benefit contributions will be deducted from any Lam paycheck or NYL payment you receive during your intermittent LOA that covers at least one full week of work. You are responsible for making your benefit contributions through PlanSource for any period in which your benefit contributions are not deducted from a Lam paycheck or NYL payment.

FAQs

Who is eligible for parental bonding leave?

These U.S. employees are eligible:

- Birth mothers, once they are no longer deemed disabled by their health care provider
- Birth fathers, regardless of relationship to the birth mother
- Those who become new parents through adoption, foster parenting, surrogacy, or legal guardianship

You must be an active, regular-status employee at the time of the birth or custody of the child to be eligible for parental bonding leave.

Does my manager need to approve my LOA?

Your manager does not need to approve your LOA. However, since your manager must develop a plan for how to redistribute work and maintain team productivity, you must discuss your LOA plans at least 30 days in advance, when foreseeable. Also, when you initiate your LOA with NYL, the first thing NYL is required to do is notify your manager of your LOA dates, so it's best to tell your manager first.

If you are a Lam employee and are planning to take intermittent LOA for bonding with your child during the first year, you can take bonding leave in increments of at least one week. Silfex employees can take bonding leave in eight-week increments up to two times.

My spouse/partner and I both work at Lam. How will that affect our LOA eligibility?

Parents who both work for Lam can each have up to 16 weeks of paid parental bonding leave. You do not have to split the 16 weeks.

How are my employee benefit contributions affected if I am on LOA for part of a month and working for the other part of the month?

During your LOA, NYL will deduct your benefit contributions from the payments you receive.

Your regular employee contributions will start up again when you return to work and receive a Lam paycheck.

If you work a partial month, your next paycheck may include deductions for your benefit contributions. If you pay your full-month's share of benefit costs through NYL deductions and then also have payroll deductions for benefits in the same month, notify the Benefits Help Desk at 877-291-9494 or benefits@lamresearch.com. The Benefits team will have any overpayment refunded to you.

How will my income-replacement payments be taxed during my LOA?

During your bonding leave, you will receive paid family leave (PFL) payments of 100% of your base pay for up to 16 weeks. Federal income tax (but not state tax) will be withheld from these payments. You will receive a W-2 from NYL.

Glossary

Bonding leave: New parents can take up to 16 weeks of bonding time within one year of the birth or placement of a child. Paid family leave (PFL) provides payments equal to 100% of your base pay (taxable), up to a weekly maximum of $4,800—if you are enrolled in short-term disability (STD) or California VDI. Lam employees can take bonding leave for 16 consecutive weeks or intermittently in increments of at least one week. Silfex employees can take bonding leave for 16 consecutive weeks or in eight-week increments up to two times.

CFRA: California Family Rights Act, a law that provides California employees up to 12 weeks of job-protected bonding leave within one year of the birth or placement of a child. To be eligible, you must have worked for Lam for more than 12 months and for at least 1,250 hours in the 12 months before your leave begins.

FMLA: Family and Medical Leave Act, a law that provides employees up to 12 weeks of job-protected leave. To be eligible, you must have worked for Lam for more than 12 months and for at least 1,250 hours in the 12 months before your leave begins.

FSA: Flexible Spending Account. You can enroll in or change your contributions to a Health Care FSA within 60 days of birth or placement of a child. You can enroll in or change your contributions to a Dependent Day Care FSA when you have a significant change in eligible dependent care expenses—like when you return to work after an LOA.

HSA: Health Savings Account. You can enroll in an HSA if you are enrolled in one of the Consumer Directed Health Plans (CDHPs) within 60 days of birth or placement of a child. You can change your contributions to an HSA at any time. If you change from individual to family medical coverage, the amount you can contribute (and the amount Lam contributes) will increase from that point forward.

LOA: Leave of absence, the overall term that applies to extended time away from work, including maternity leave and parental bonding leave.

PRO TIP

Employees outside California are automatically enrolled in STD as new hires and during Open Enrollment. Be sure you do not opt out of STD if you expect to take an LOA in the next year.

OFLA: Oregon Family Leave Act, a law that provides Oregon employees job protection for up to 12 weeks during pregnancy disability leave and an additional 12 weeks of job-protected bonding leave within one year of the birth or placement of a child. To be eligible, you must have worked for Lam an average of at least 25 hours a week in the 180 days prior to the start of your leave.

Paternity leave: See bonding leave.

PFL: Paid family leave, which new parents can use for up to 16 weeks of bonding time within one year of birth or placement of a child. PFL provides payments equal to 100% of your base pay (taxable), up to a weekly maximum of $4,800—if you are enrolled in short-term disability (STD) or California VDI.

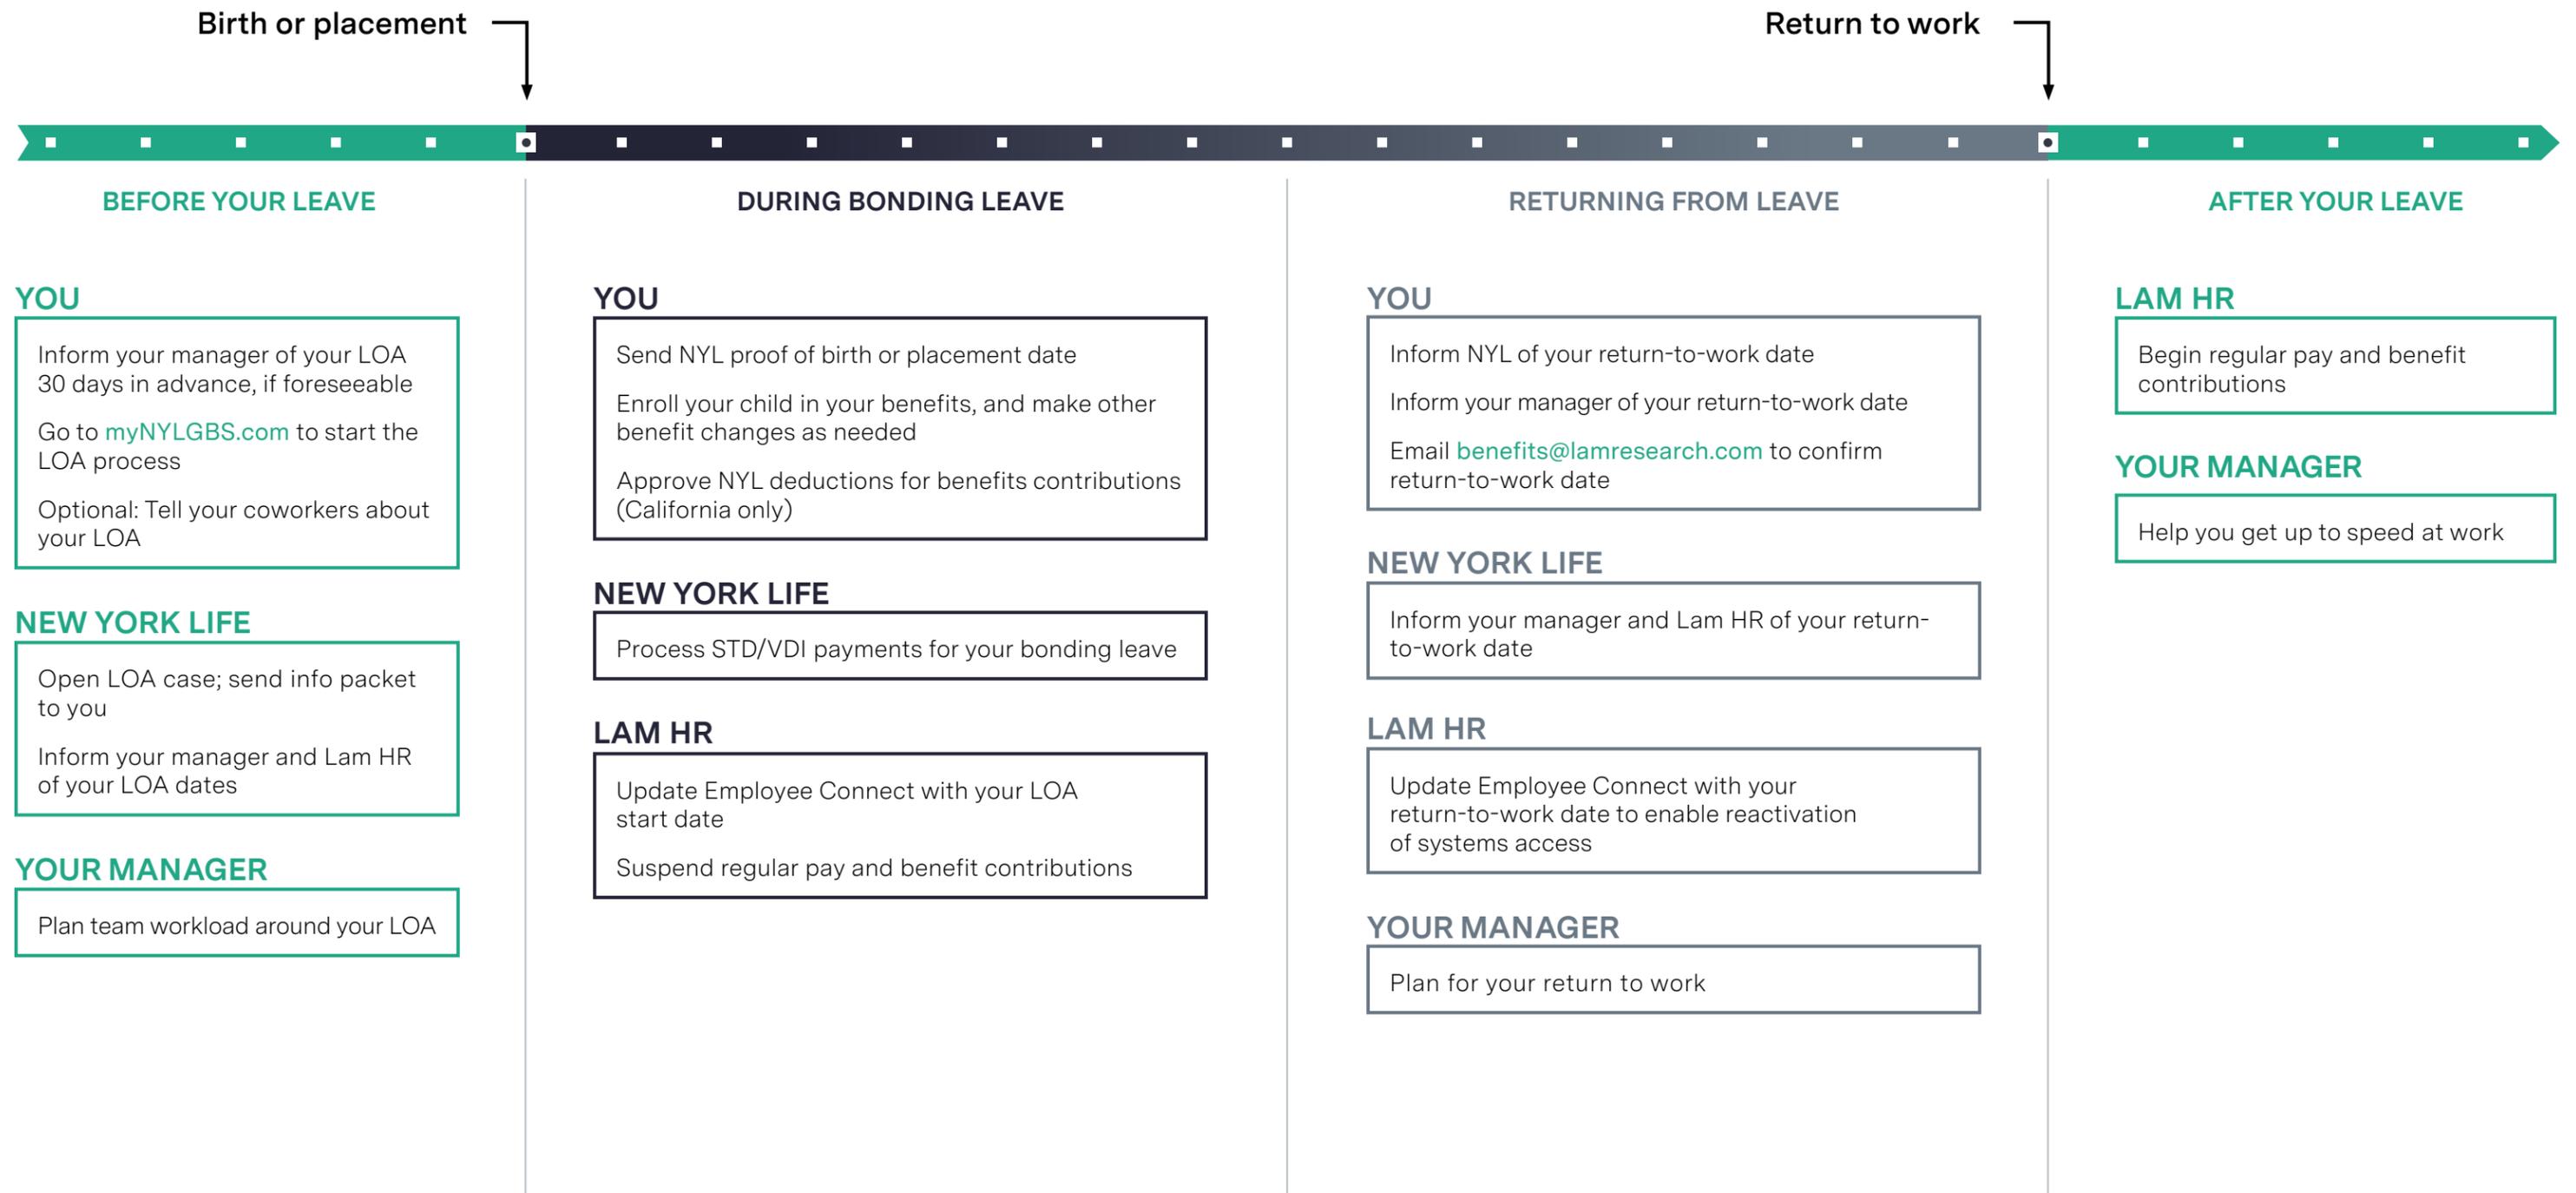

Proof of birth: You will need to provide documentation to establish the relationship between you and your child, such as a birth certificate, hospital discharge papers, or certificate of placement for adoption or foster care.

STD: Short-term disability insurance, which is available to employees outside California. If you are enrolled, STD replaces 100% of your base pay (taxable) during bonding leave.

VDI: Voluntary Disability Insurance, which covers employees in California. VDI replaces 100% of your base pay (taxable) during bonding leave. Although “voluntary” is in the name, California employees cannot opt out of this coverage.
